

Welcome to Hierarchy Magazine. If you're the type of person this was created for, skim through it and enjoy. If you're one of the uninitiated, read this like your bible - whether you love us or hate us, we are out there and we are everywhere. We are the alternative but not "alternative" crowd, and this is our statement.

Dedicated to the Circumpolar Peoples.

We Now Present...

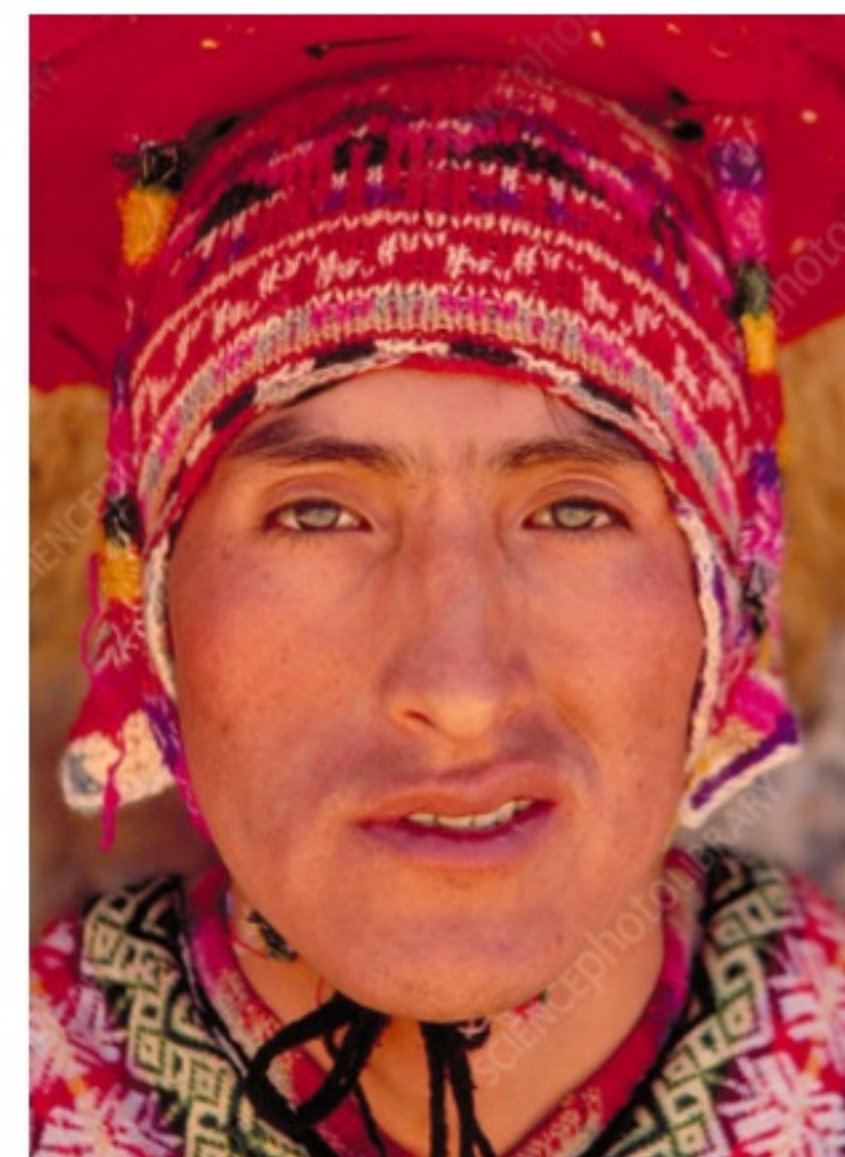

HIERARCHY

Nordids of South America???

Me and my lab partner who I will simply be referring to as C.S. made note of a phenomenon. While the Nordid phenotype is very well recorded and defined, we could see that it clearly stemmed from the Ancient North Eurasians of the Siberian Tundra - and within this ANE population they had another phenotype which was older than even "Proto Nordid." This "Pre Proto Nordid" phenotype influenced many phenotypes across Eurasia and the Americas such as Lakotid, North Andid, Yenisey, Proto Nordid, etc.

To synthesize this phenotype we had to use our secret morphing and DEMORPHING tools to come up with a composite image - we removed the Tungid influence from Yenisey, removed the Mediterranid influence from Proto Nordid, removed the Basal and Ancient Northeast Asian influence from North Andid, and we got our guy:

As you can see this is essentially the "Allfather" of North Asia, Northern Europe, and the Americas, but some of the purest expressions of this "Pre Proto Nordid" appearance come from an unexpected location - Colombia and the Northern Amazon.

It can be observed that members of the Kogi, Awá, and Guna tribes and even some women of the Pirahã have some of the most striking "Pre Proto Nordid" looks on the planet today. Even with jungle adaptations and Pop Y interbreeding, the unmistakable Nordid look is present in these South American aboriginals. It also should be noted that traces of this phenotype do not exist in Mexico beyond a faint whisper. Maybe this is why the Colombians are the best of the Latin American Mestizos - they are mixed on both sides with excellent stock.

ENGLISH AS A SECOND LANGUAGE

GEN Z

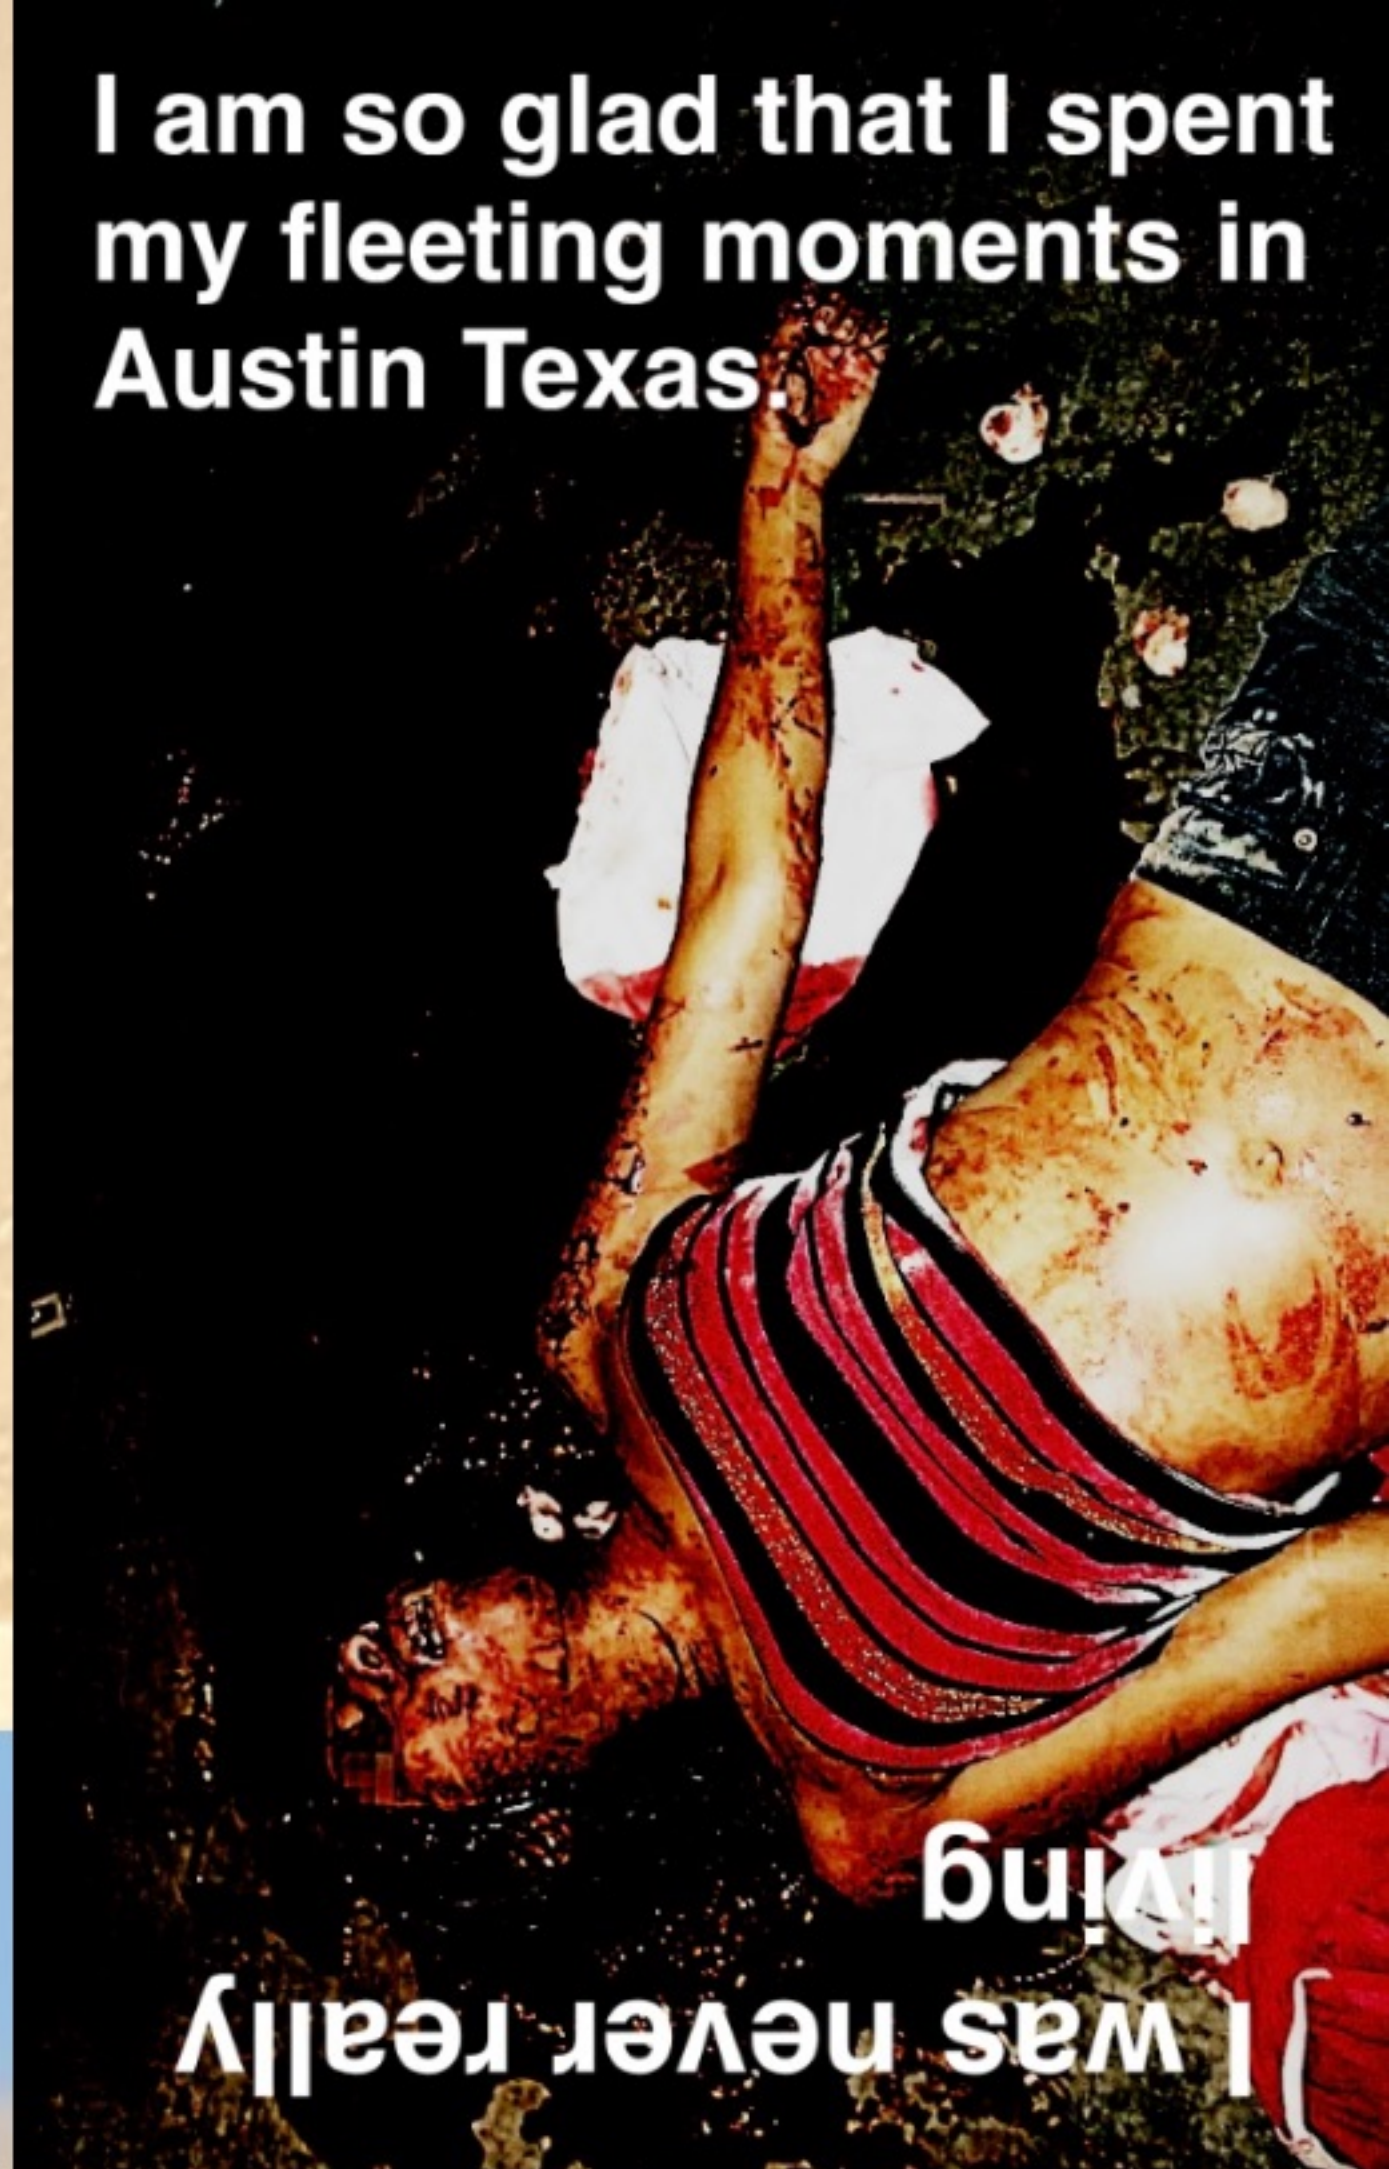

Religious Values!!!

Despite having the lowest church attendance and the highest rates of atheism on paper, Gen Z displays more overt religiosity and spirituality than any generation in the past century. The disorganized faith of Gen Z can express itself in a gazillion ways - from Yahwist revival Zionists with their Negev Chan computer wallpapers to White Tengriist Jihadists from Charleston South Carolina. Regardless of the apparent "larpiness" of it all, these self-fashioned beliefs are, in a sense, more authentic than the inherited Latin Masses of earlier generations. Gen Z was (for the most part) raised in secular, rational environments and made the deliberate choice to become superstitious and fundamentalist instead of just merely inheriting it. This deliberate adoption of religion by the members of Gen Z feels far more sincere than the mindless adoption and subscription to a birth religion.

There is also a visible revival of orthodoxy and catholicism that seems to only exist on the internet and in people's bedrooms. This is a harrowing sight, these reprehensible foreign religions - imported from the global south and the Greco-Slavic east - are gaining unprecedented influence among the people who will soon hold cultural and political power. I would far rather live under the rule of sharp-minded Satanists and Zionists like Peter Thiel than in a world run by "trad" mestizos and White race traitors.

Will Sexton, the former homosexual turned right-wing Instagram Reels personality perfectly encapsulates this White traitor archetype. He boasts that he is the "owner of an American name." What good is an American name if its bearer bows to a foreign religion long associated with italians and mexicans, and goes so far as to put that faith above his own people? He has baptized his Germanic soul in a mysterious brown catholic sludge and emerged as little more than a fat, gay, retarded latinx.

Actually, I think he converted to orthodoxy now that I think of it, but I [REDACTED] do not care in the slightest to accurately represent the religious beliefs of any non-Protestant non-Pagan Anglo American.

An Opinion From a Traditional Homosexual

By Anonymous Writer 1

It's hard to take a group called Gays Against Groomers seriously as in any sense a "conservative" organization when its name alone implies the existence of the concepts of both "gays" and "against grooming."

While a small minority of people are certainly born with purely homosexual attractions, this is far from the most common deviation from total heterosexuality. Any serious comparison of the great civilizations of history—whether the Greeks, Romans, Chinese, Japanese, Persians, or Aztecs—shows the most common form of homosexual behavior in these most accomplished societies to be what would undoubtedly be termed "grooming" by "gay" "conservatives" today, and that the digestible Modern Family image they defend is but an anomaly of the late Christian age.

Anyone remotely honest with themselves enough to put away the sweeping moralfaggotry of Chris Hanson can see why this is the case. From a male point of view, the beautiful pubescent boy is equivalent or superior to a woman in every sense but his lack of childbearing abilities and the length of time he remains beautiful for (only slightly less long). It is understandable that many men should find this appealing but not another adult man. The assertion by such groups as GAG or the uberlarping pathicus Jack Donovan that the behavior of the average Fire Island bottom is any less shameful—let alone more compatible with a "trad" vision of the world—than that practiced by nearly all of the great Classical philosophers or Romantic poets is a patent absurdity, a mere concession to the hysterical Christian mother wary of any rival to her own overbearing influence. "Gayness" as the sole norm beyond pure heterosexuality often harms even those who embrace it fully, deprived of developing healthy relationships to the female sex, who now comforts in seeing them as reduced to sexless jesters, and living in endless anxiety of ageing without the clearly defined future they would have been given in Athens. Men and women, the young and the old, these were never meant to be loved the same way, yet such nuance is eschewed by the vulgar Christianized "right-winger" of today, who despite all his talk of biology is the ultimate cuck to the gynocratic ignorance of it.

Normiecon types often bring up, rightfully so, that the female-dominated classroom environment of today is a great disservice to young men. And yet is it not a reasonable extraction from honest historical study that some form of the Greek system—unspoken versions of which, by the way, almost always arise in any form of sex-segregated educational institutions—might be better for the intellectual and spiritual development of a young man than submission to childless menopausals with education degrees? Maybe out of this there might once again arise a hierarchy of beauty and strength rather than one of passiveness and meaningless credentialmaxxing. An atmosphere of homoplatic and occasionally homoerotic intimacy across ages is of particular importance in the teaching of the arts and humanities, for which I believe formal university programs should generally be replaced with various guilds and esoteric societies, but can also extend into the intergenerational teaching of general matters of life. And yet no one in The Atlantic or Daily Wire has anywhere near the balls to propose anything like this as a solution to "the incel movement" or the "male loneliness crisis," for fear of the alleged "trauma" a man in his twenties might impose on an allegedly helpless little boy of sixteen. But again I ask: any worse trauma than forcible submission to the whims of resentful old crones who despise his every natural impulse?

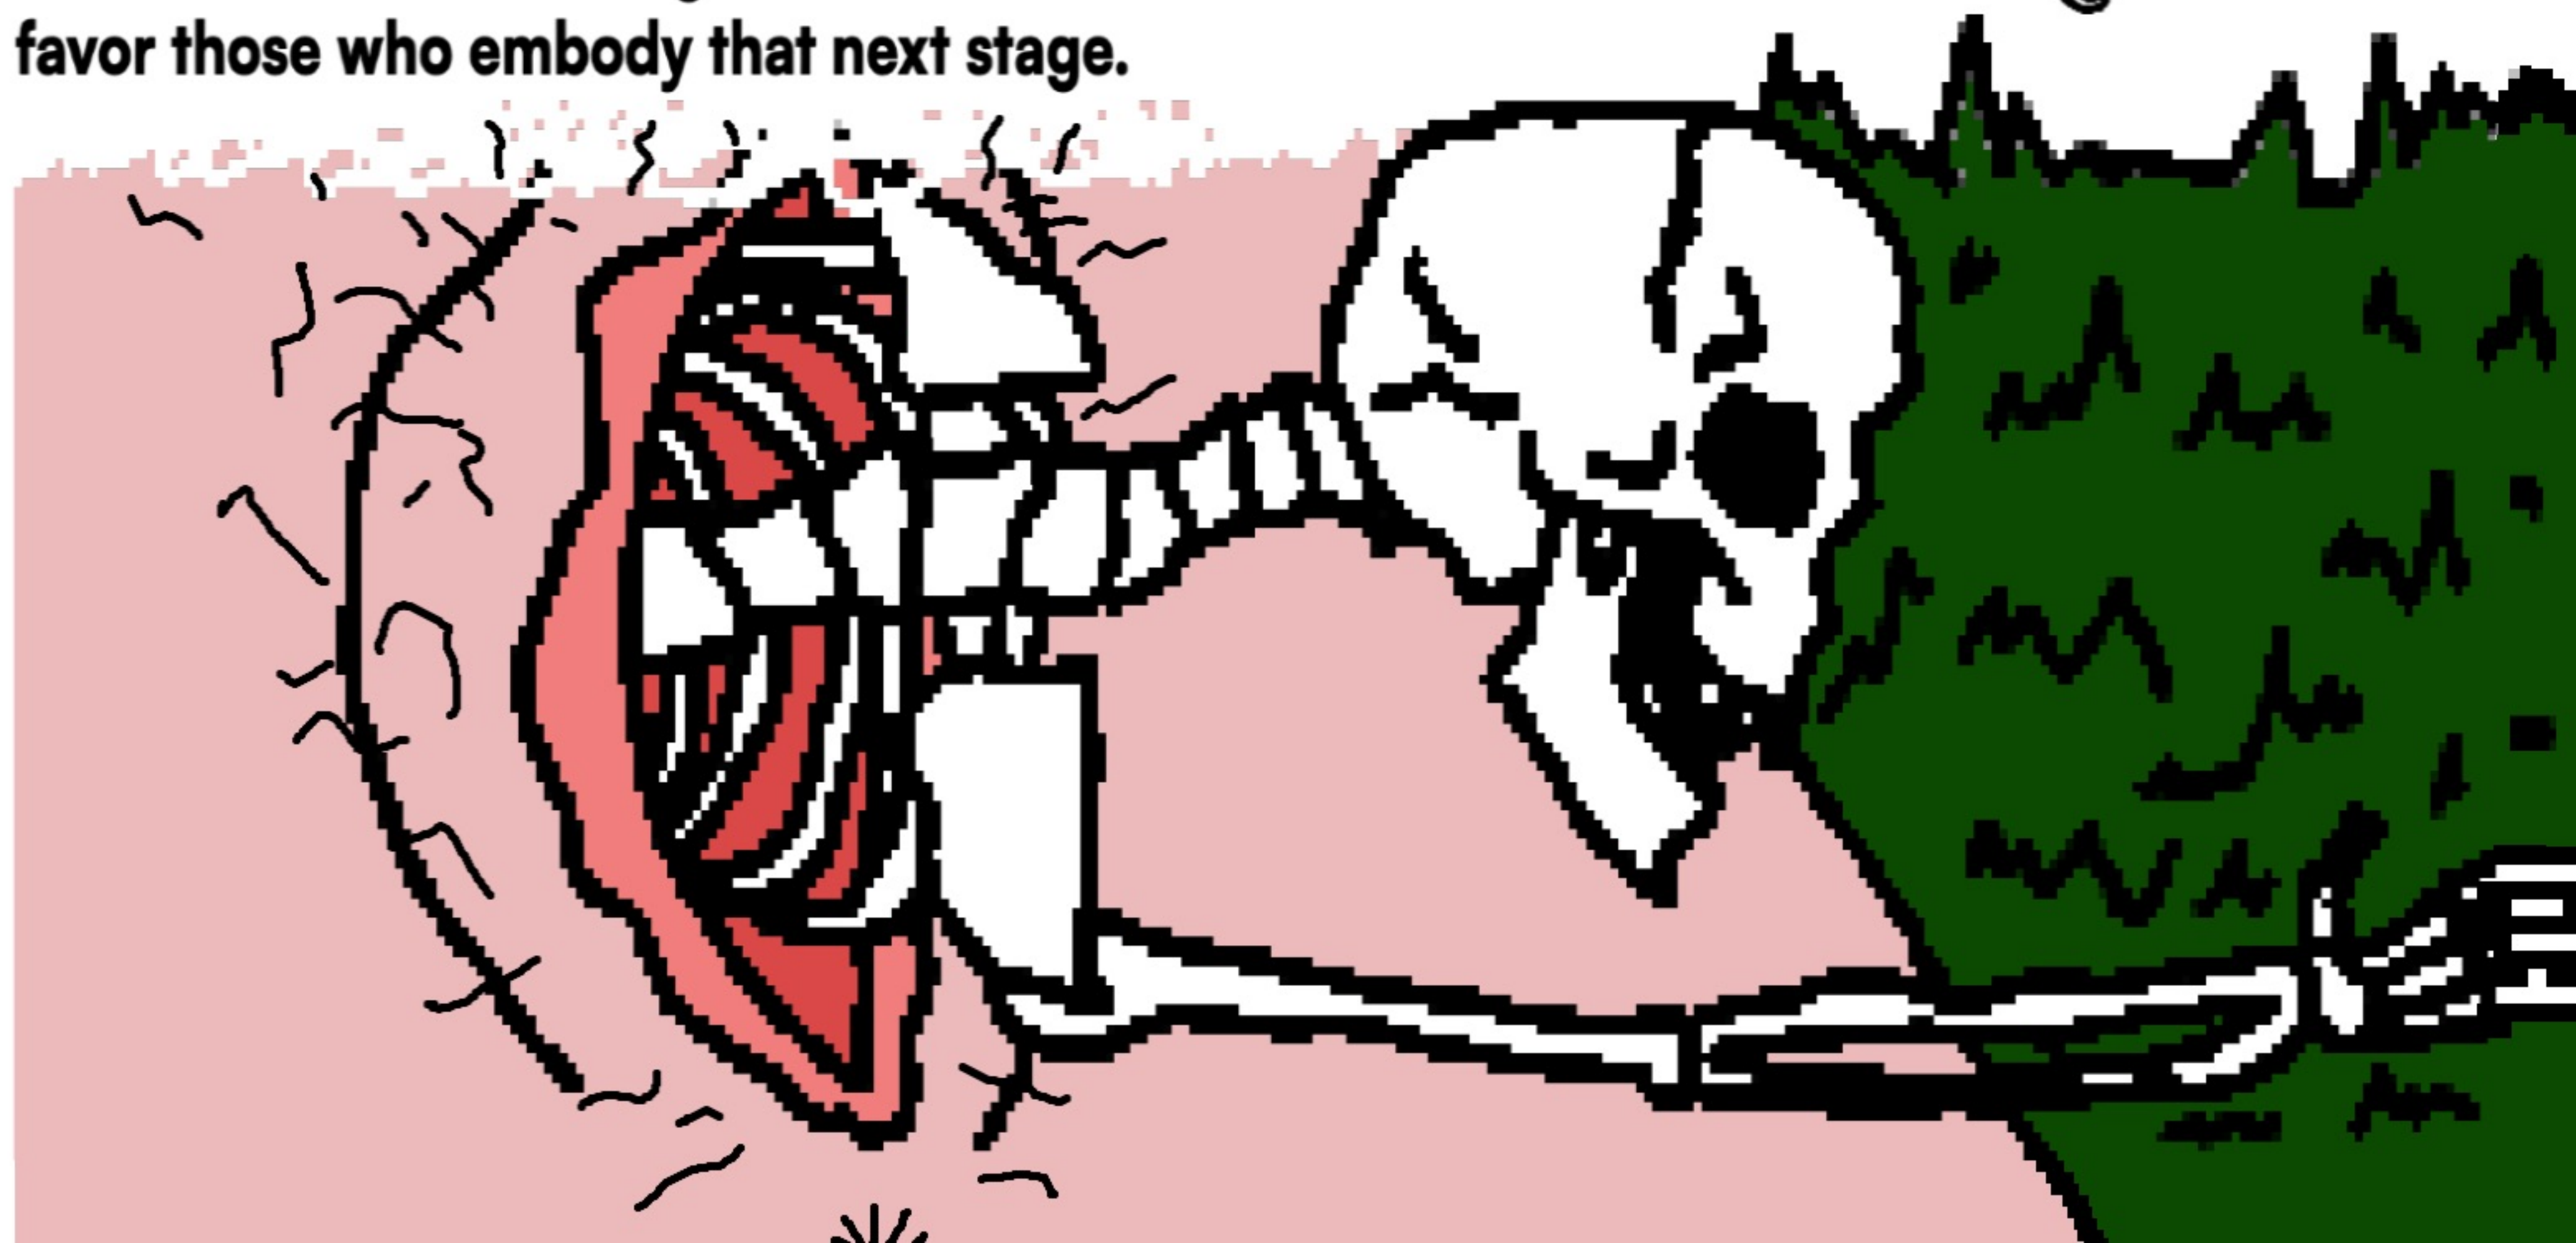

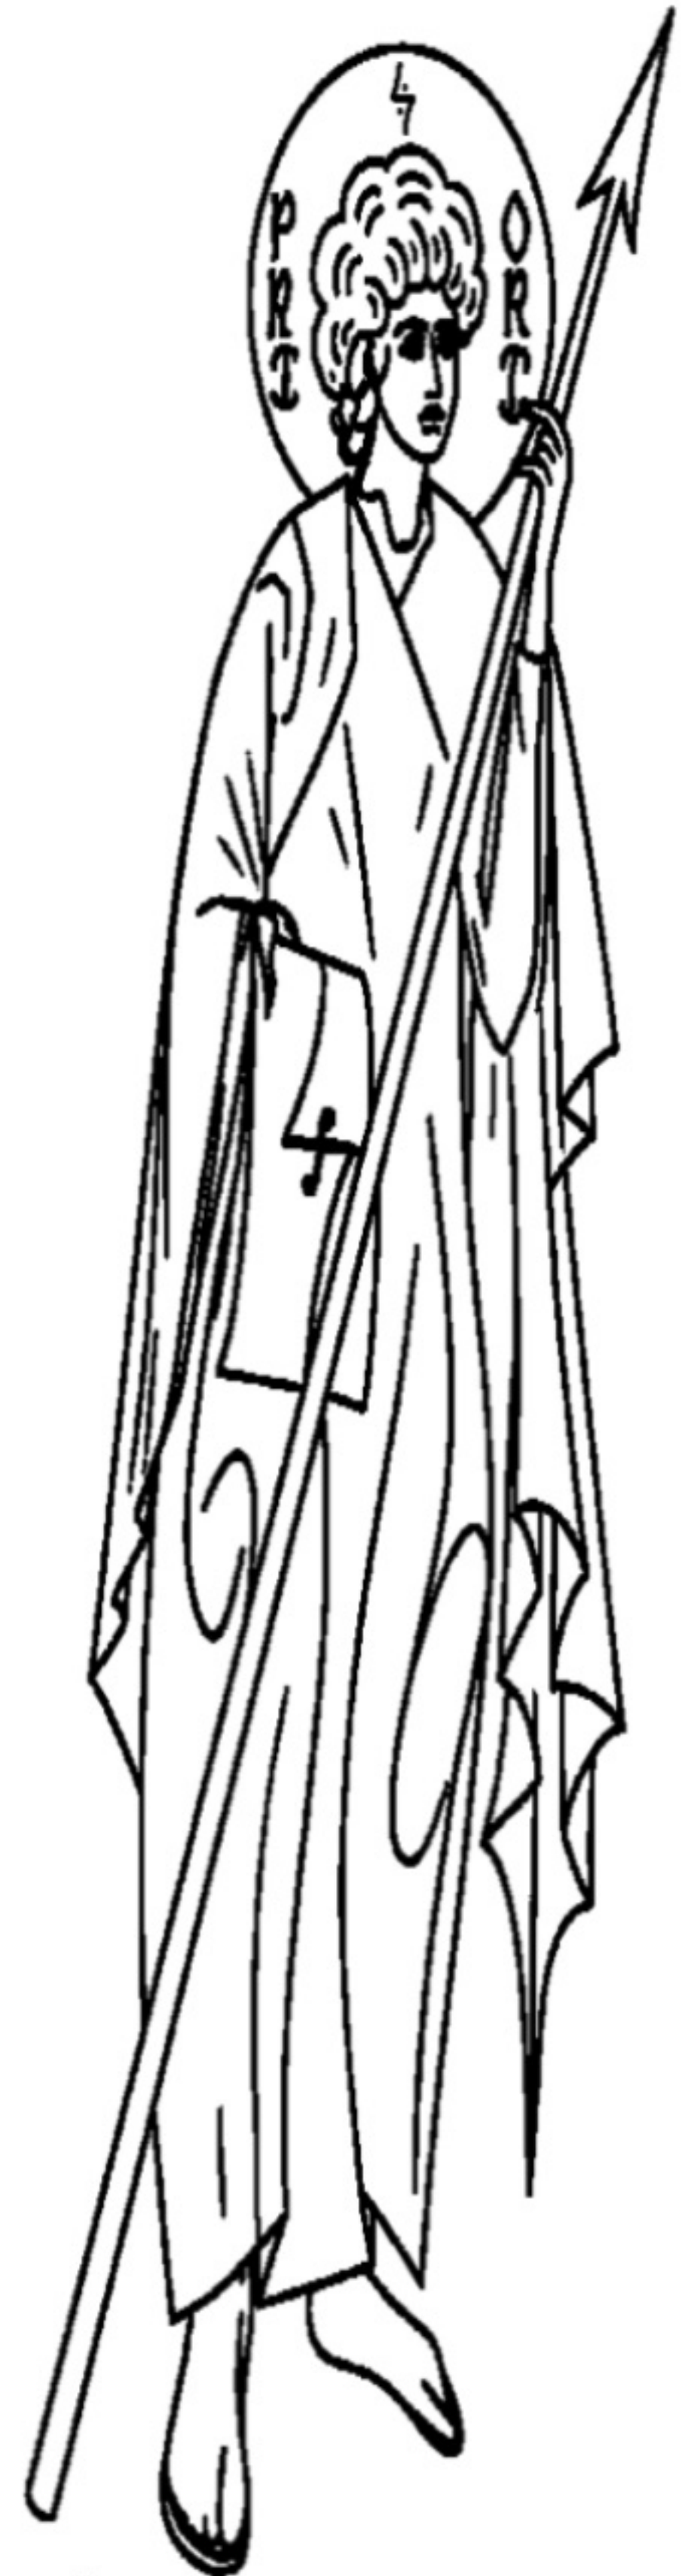

For those who wish to attempt to recreate the heterosexual unit with two men or two women, let a thousand blossoms bloom for all I care. But as far as I am concerned, a great elephant in the room still obstructs both the right's allegedly cherished question of masculinity as well as the left's of sexual liberation, one we are evidently as a society still too attached to Semitic moralism to discuss in an honest manner. Until then, another eternity of boring debates about drag queen story time or whatever the fuck I guess. (postscript— I mean, even the sex changes for kids thing these types are always mad about isn't really all that new. The issue is less so that boys' nuts are being cut off on principle as much as the fact we're not taking advantage of this for the sake of creating more beautiful music.)

Man's Ecological Succession

How the Development of Civilization Promises its Demise by ig@no.age.esoterica

Civilization gives us the impression that humanity is the story of one species who has fought and won against the wild jungle. This myth is false. Rather, it is the cultic worship of civilization that has painted a myth of a victory over the wild. Remove the myth and what you are left with is a species who is taking credit for that wild jungle transforming around them. All changes that are enacted upon this earth by any species; the ant making their hill, the beavers making their dam, or man making his sky scrapers could not come to pass without first being favored by the gods. Ecological succession is the pattern of the wilderness's development. Intuitively we understand that an acre of dirt left bare will grow some weeds and grasses for a while, then shrubs and bushes will take over. Give it two hundred years and that acre will become a forest. Each stage develops and carves the way for its own end and the next stage's beginning. A pattern emerges. Humanity began to farm because the convenient megafauna succumbed to the cold about 12,000 years ago. Crops like grasses grow easily in steady climates, so they flourished in the stability following that cold snap. By sheer coincidence, we now had the spare time to build skyscrapers. Man is in the climax of his own myth, but if the life of a species is summarized in the life of a man then we are destined to decline and reach a mellow, slow equilibrium like the end stage of ecological succession's forest and the latter half of a man's own life. The gods who once favored civilization will now favor those who embody that next stage.

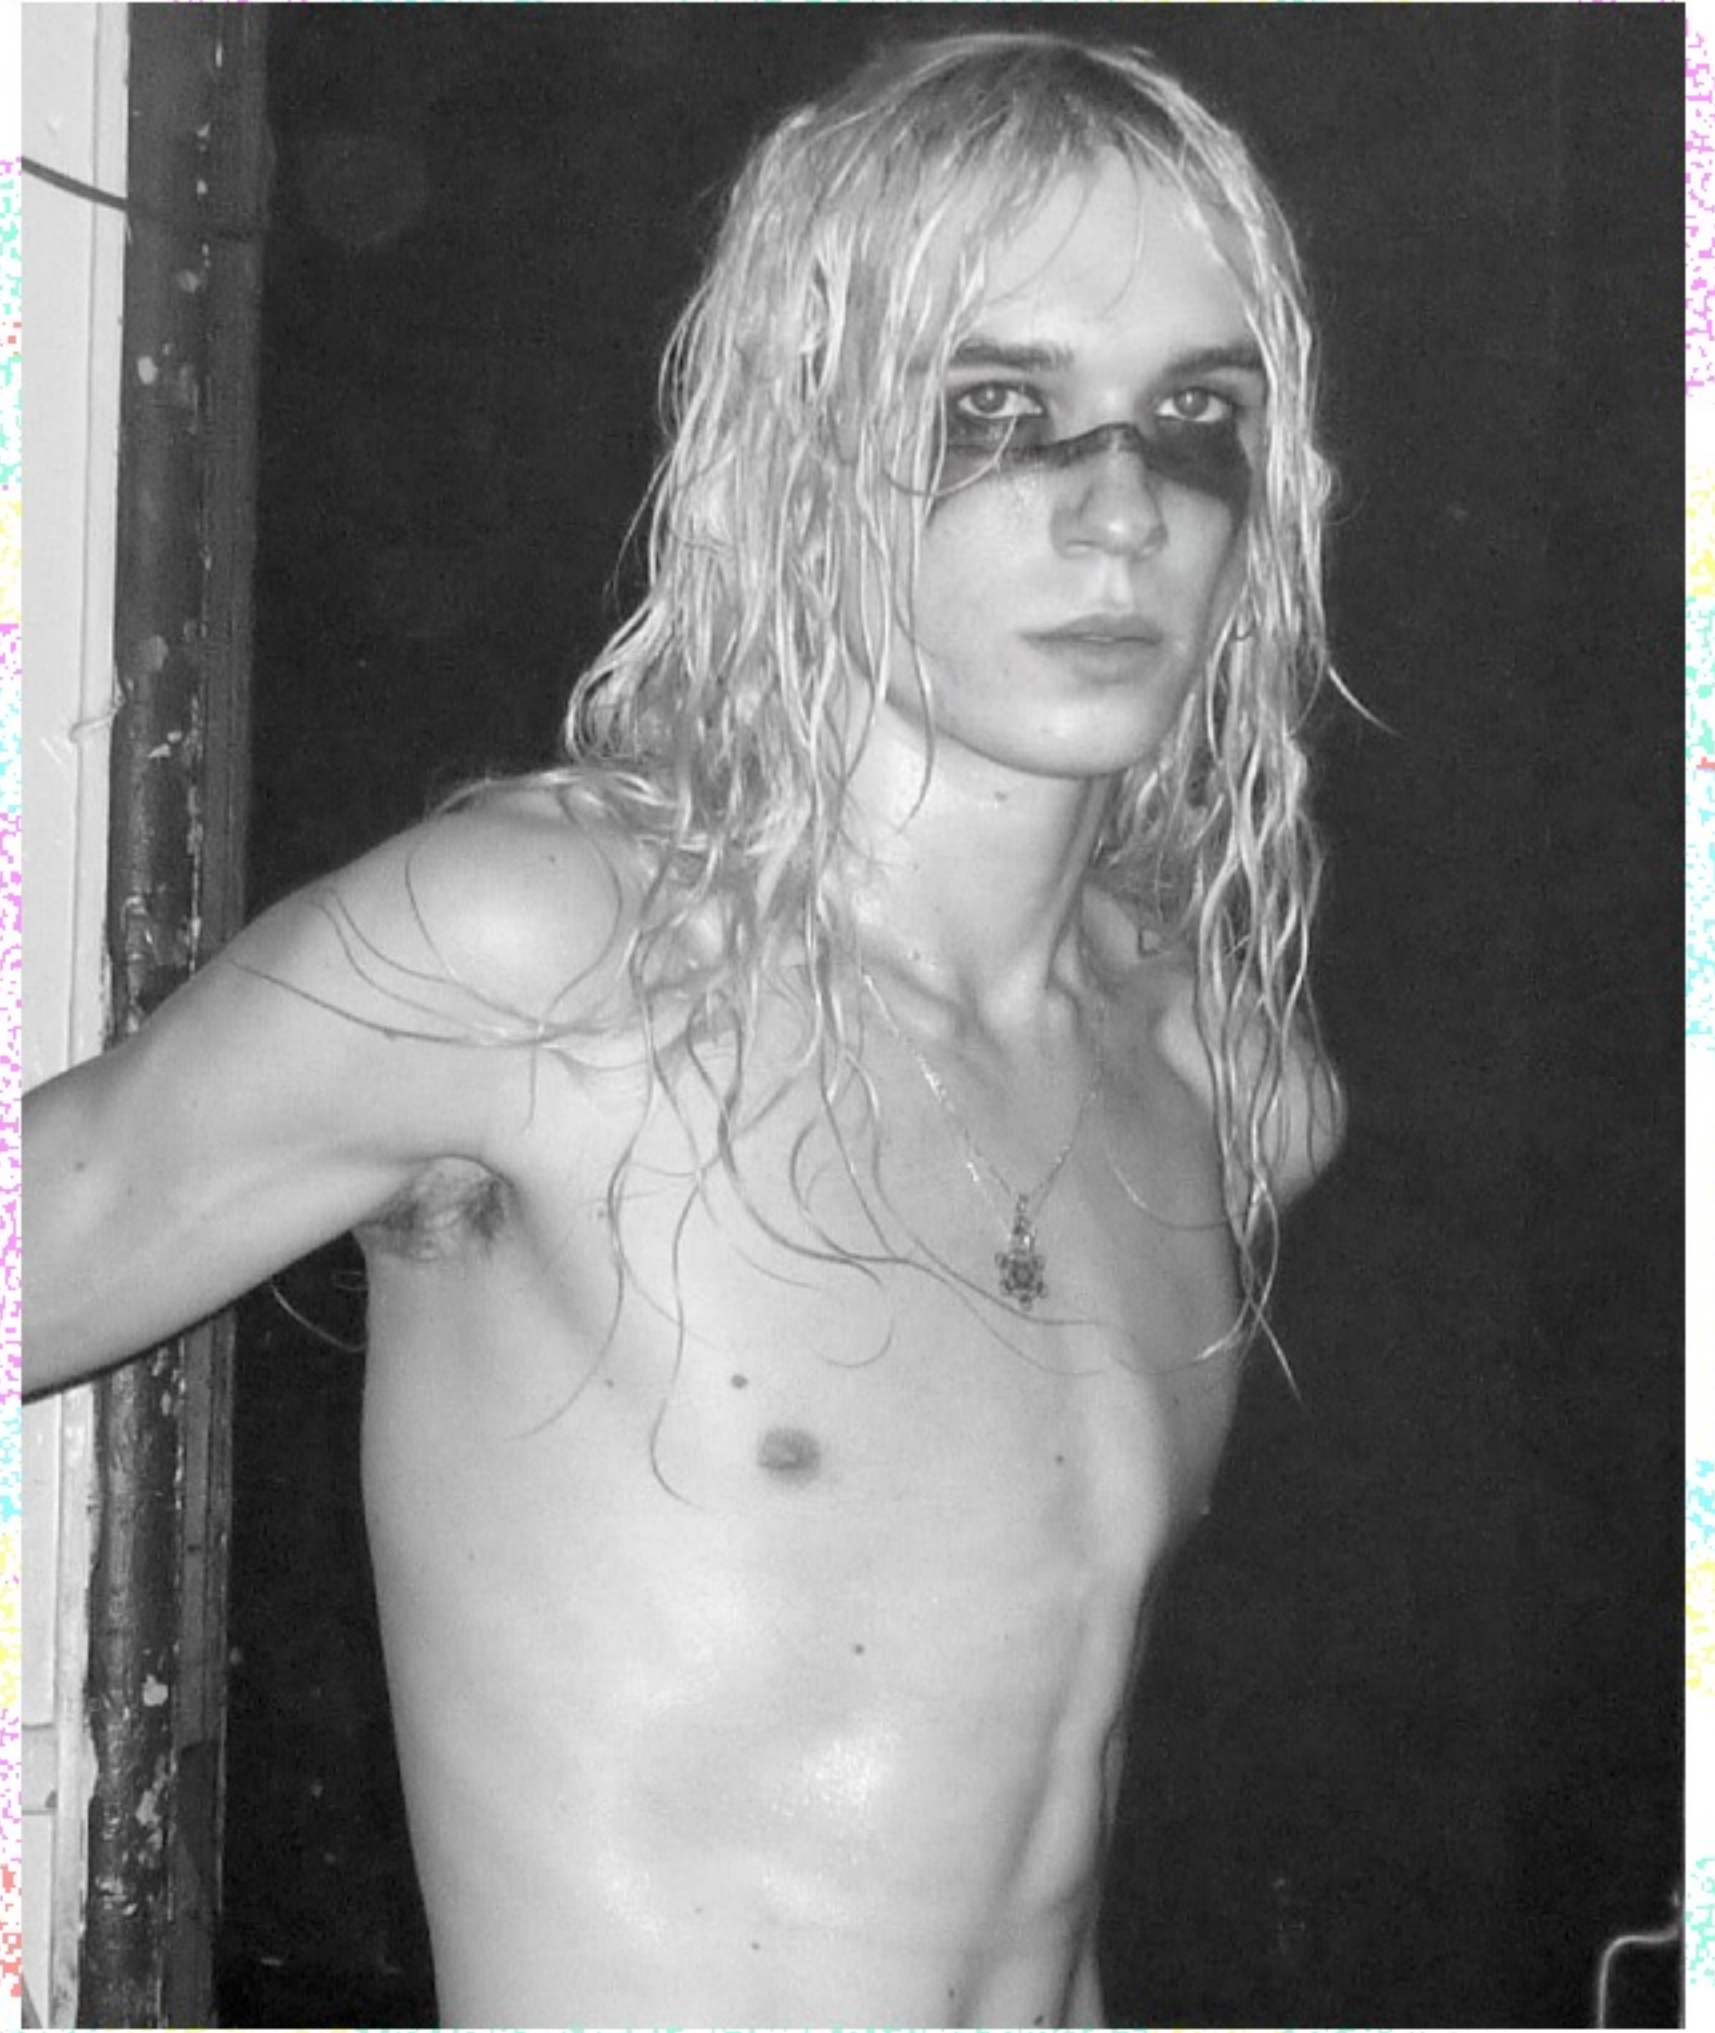

interview with 2hollis!!!1!!

H: Hello 2hollis
wow it is such a pleasure to meet
you!!!

2hollis: Yo what's up nigga what's cracking.

H: So like we just wanted to ask you what your biggest inspiration is and stuff!

2hollis: Yeah so basically I just was robbing and jugging niggas for their weed all over LA and selling it back to them laced with crack and then I summoned the Jewish angel Metatron and he taught me
how to make music and shit.

H: Wow sounds
very interesting,
and what's your favorite pizza
topping?

2hollis: Nigga. We are Noctulians. We eat and kill babies for fun nigga with the Clintons and shit. We make DNB on our pizza nigga. Don't fuck with the hollyweird mafia nigga. fuck you.

He then spits in my face

H: Awee hahaha you're so funny! And tell me what is your favorite ice cream flavor????

2hollis: Nigga. I'm a rape victim. We don't eat "ice cream" nigga. This fuck ass interview is done my nigga, I'm off to fuck on 17 different girls and boys RIGHT NOW nigga. On fucking Lamron.

After this 2hollis flipped my table over and spanked me with a little paddle before he left my studio and got into a private limo full of underaged fans. It really is shocking how effortlessly cool some people can be.

LOVE IS ...

Doing whatever is necessary.

A depiction of the Aboriginal condition before and after Anglo-Irish contact.

North Eurasia is my home ❤️

8:34 AM

Shit i would post on my north eurasian pansiberasian laurasian uhh slavoturkic uhhhh neoscythian twitter account

8:35 AM

Laurasianist Slavoturkic Germano-Uralic Chukchi North Amerind respect button

8:39 AM

"14 heartbreaking photos that will make you say fuck having borders and law and shit"

I DO THIS THING
CALLED WHATEVER THE FUCK I WANT

PANDORA'S BOX

Open it once and you will NEVER be able to look at a regular woman again.

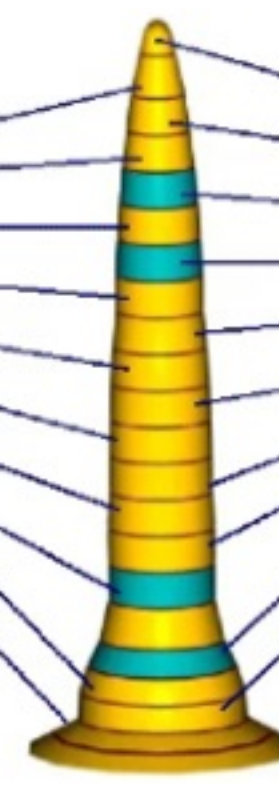

The ran through snatch of your average Austin tunnel show where is a portal straight to the depths of hell.

DON'T DO IT.

WE ARE THE CHILDREN OF ≠ GENOCIDE AND HATE ≠

[illegible]

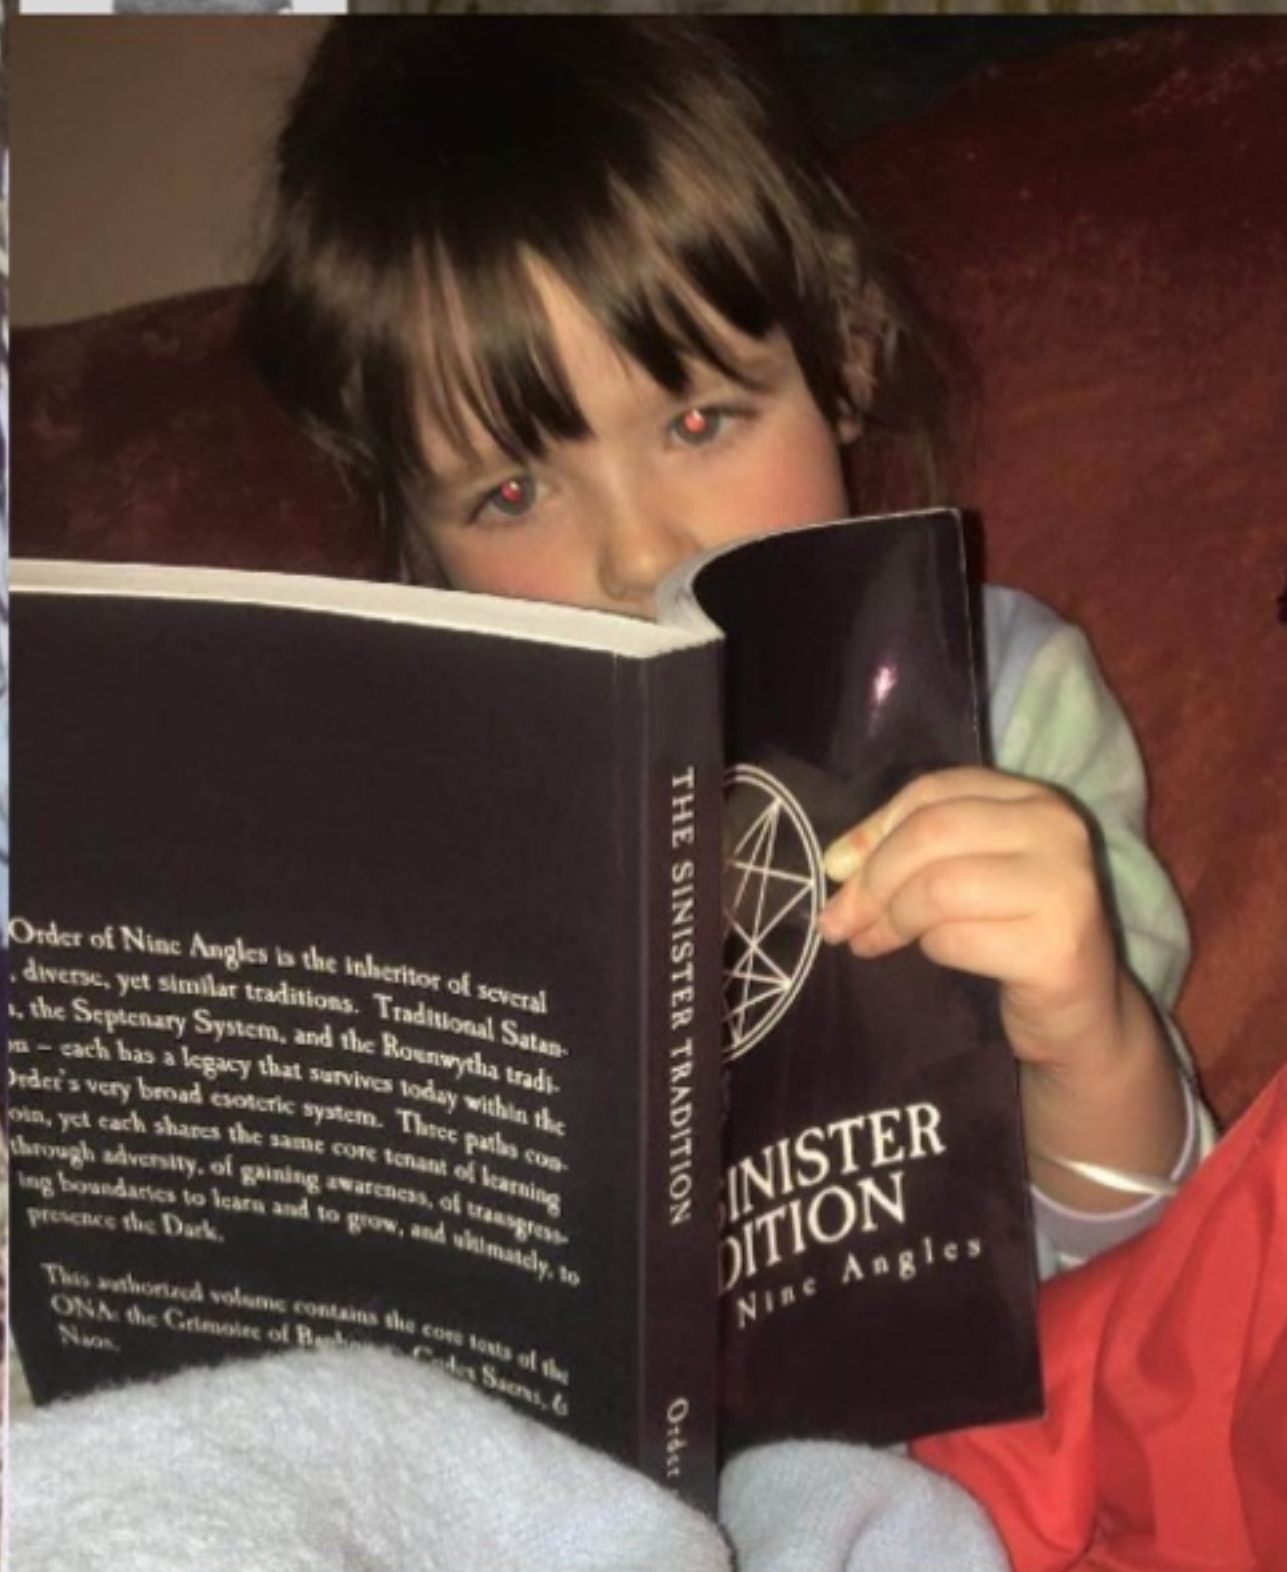

Do you love your own sister?

Then why don't you rape her.

Proto-Iranic Sintashta

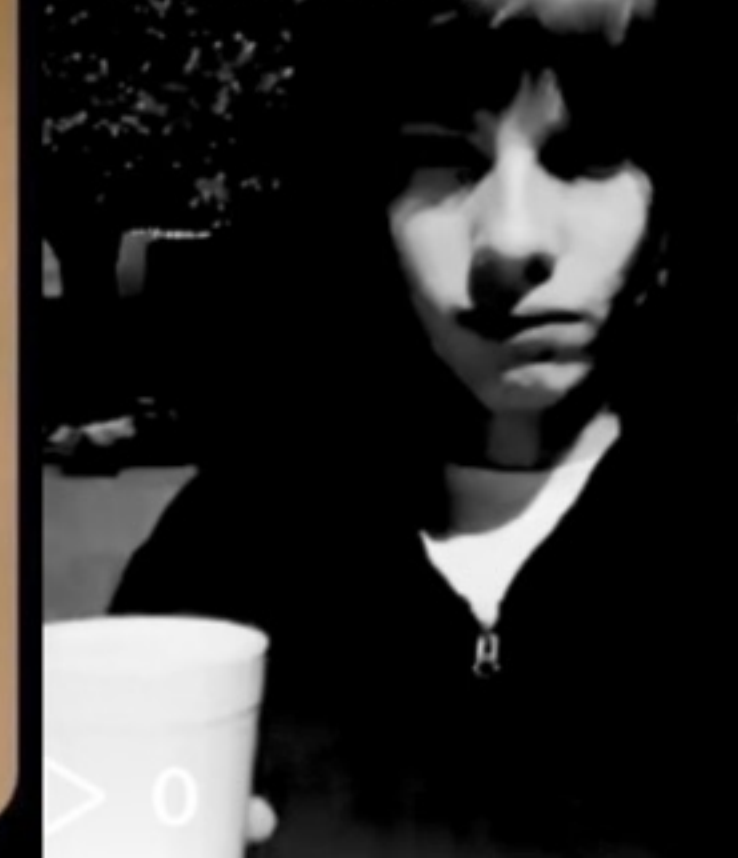

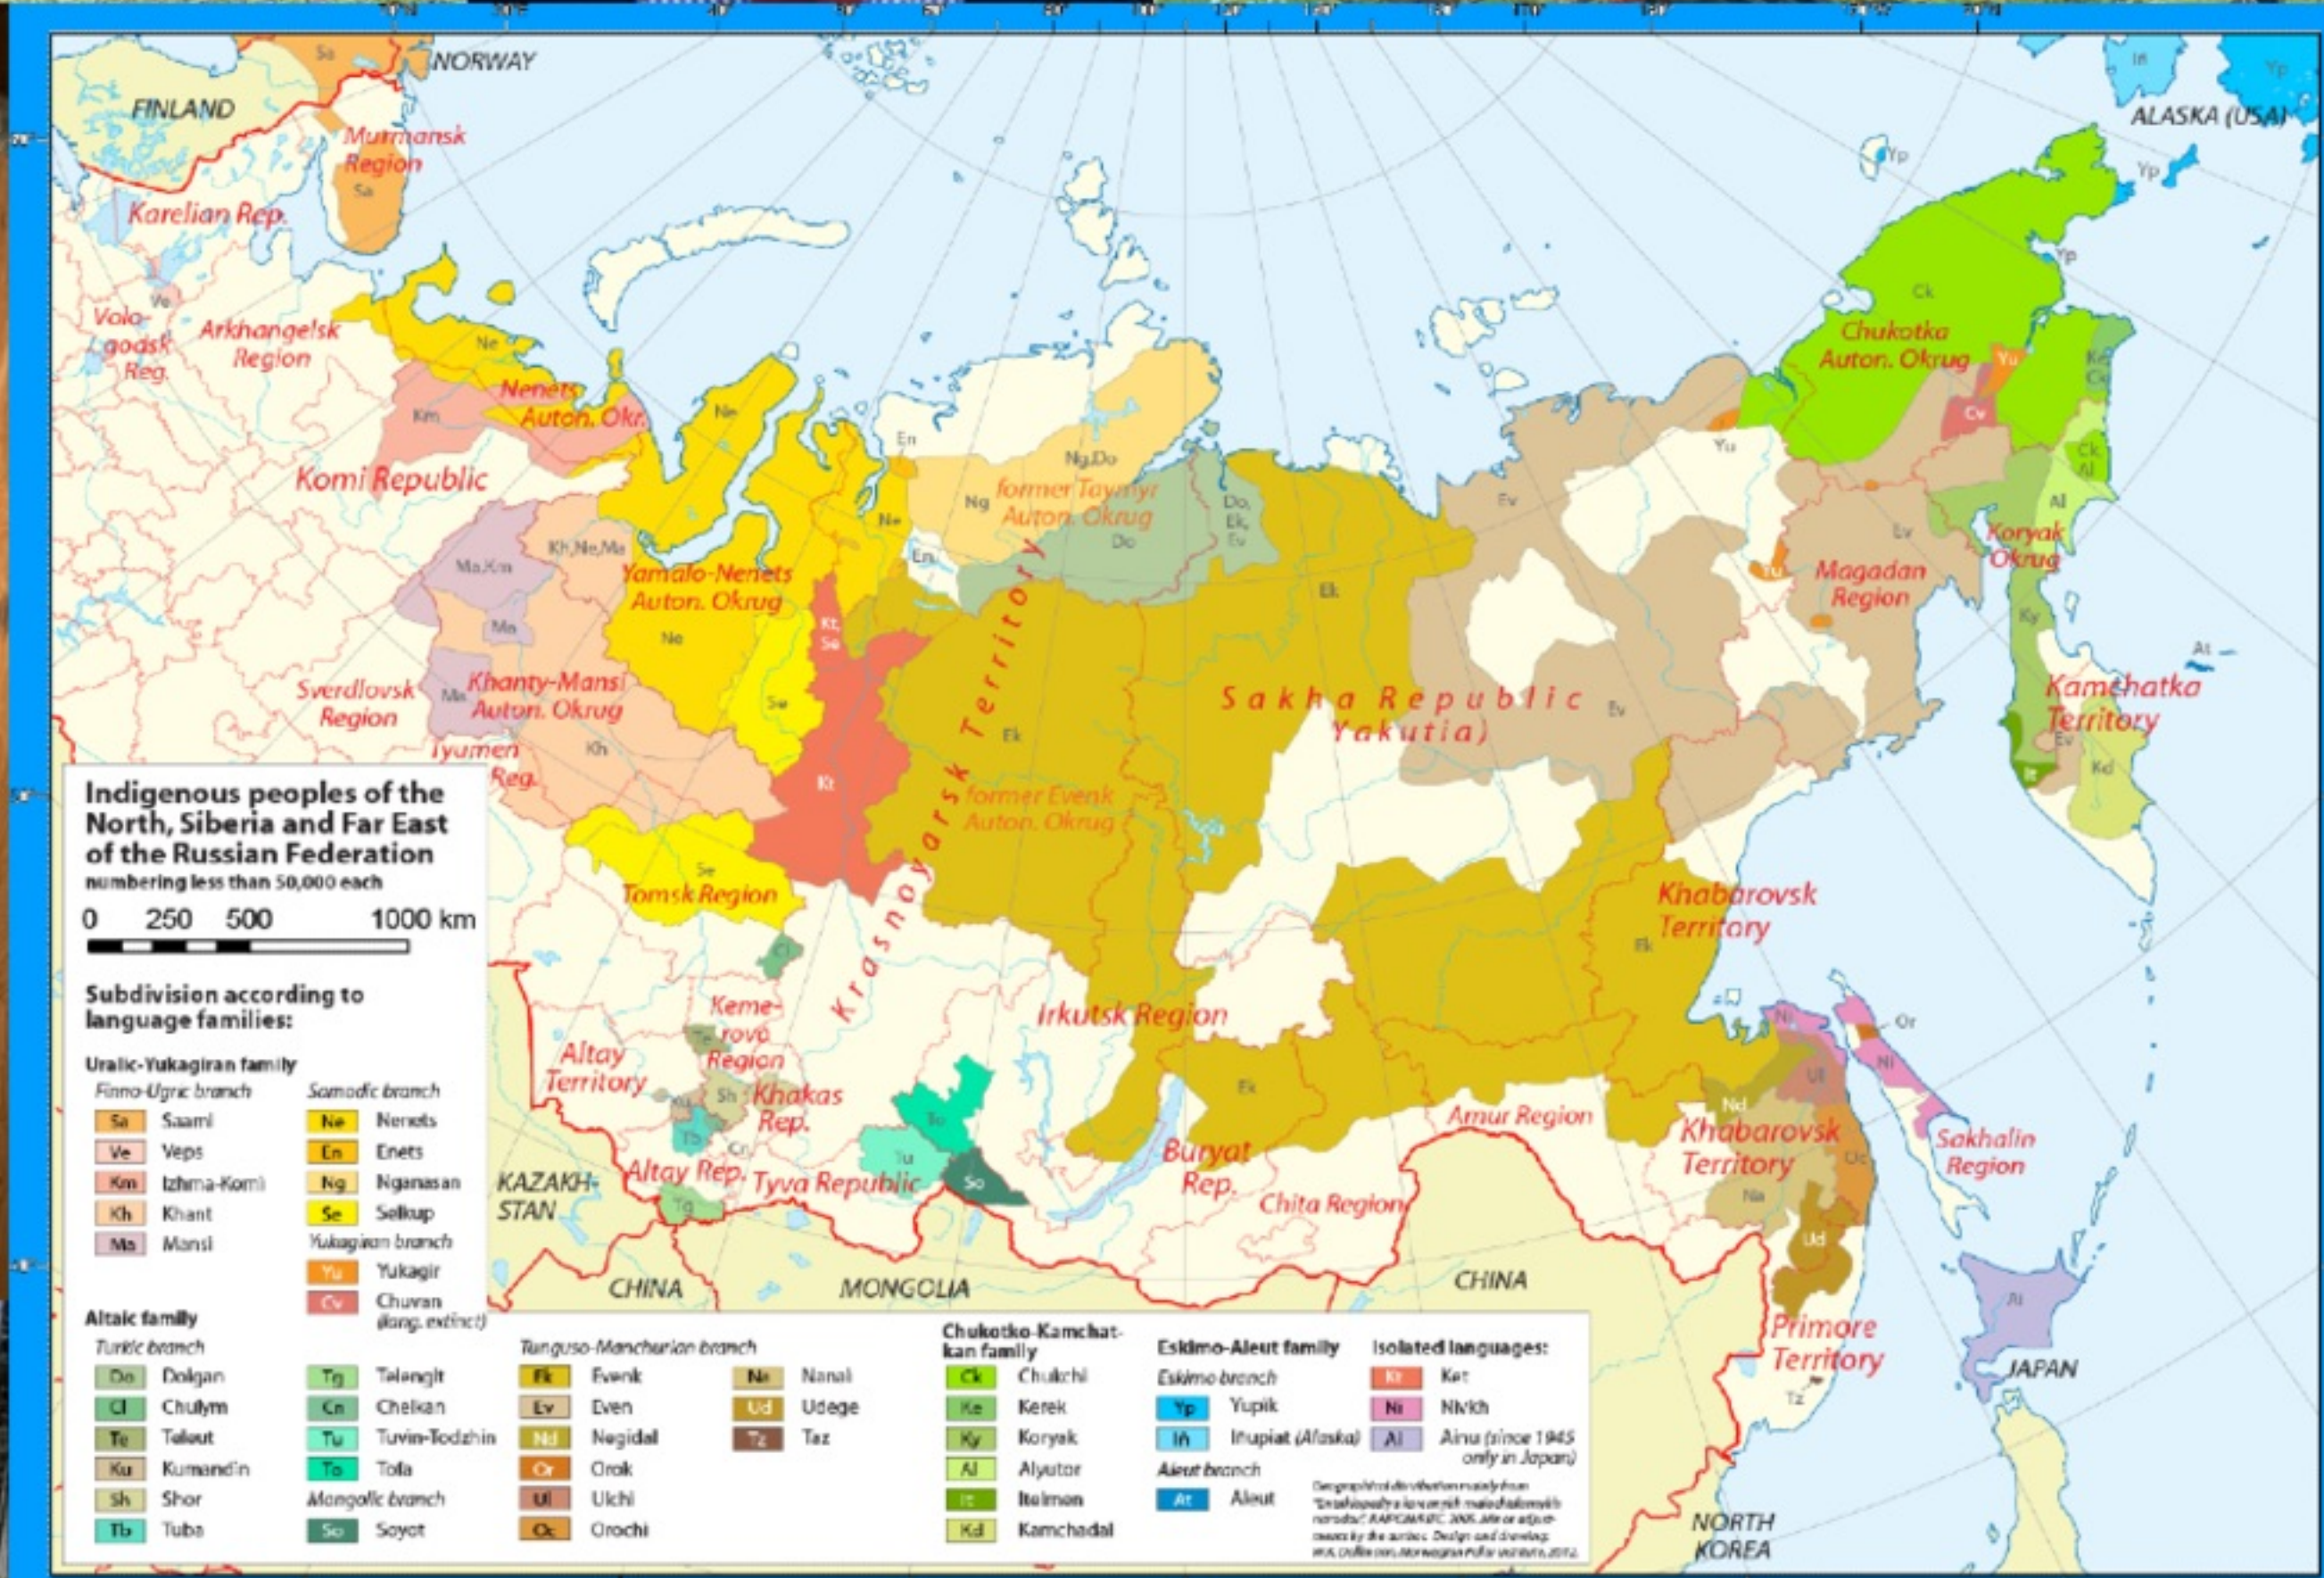

EVEN THE LOVE BETWEEN A MOTHER AND HER NEWBORN IS PURE TRANSACTION.

RAPE
JESUS
CHRIST

Christians are Women and also Slaves:

There Is No Hope
sv3rige · 55K views · 3 years ago

THE WORLD IS

(≠)HIERARCHY(≠)

Pro Life Lore:

ABORTION Lore:

Media Literacy???

Every single day you are raped silly

You do nothing about it and you deserve it

Try to imagine getting held down and raped and then talk to me about it.

SEX KITTEN BRAINWASHING PROGRAMMED INTO THE YOUTH

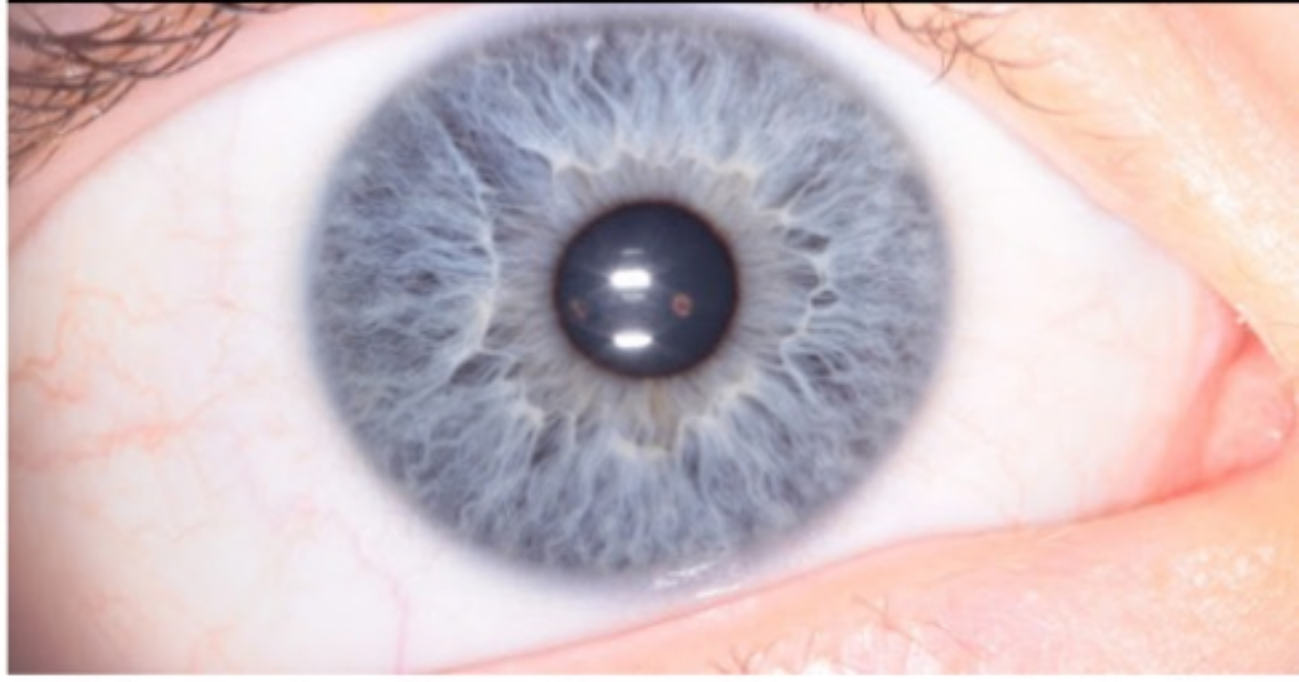

1. Wearing feline symbolism to show she is "in heat"
2. Wearing plastic (polyester) suggestive clothing on legs to poison her body, elicit lust, and destroy her fertility
3. Eye contacts to disguise Indigenous European features
4. Whole face coated in makeup to hide her true appearance and replace it with a more cartoonish childlike form
5. Posed inside of box (sex trafficking)
6. Whole outfit is mainly comprised of black (a color naturally seen as threatening in nature)
7. Hands (visual indicator of true age) hidden
8. Hair is an unnatural color and pattern (the beauty standard is inhumanity)
9. Clothing displays subtle provocative cartoon imagery

LOVE

Why must they hate the people who have the most???

Every day there is another woman trying to steal my subculture because she thinks it is a part of her "alternative" scene. I must do something about it...

I HEREBY SENTENCE YOU TO RAPE.

THEY SAY RAPE IS WORSE THAN DEATH. I SAY BRING ON THE RAPE PENALTY.

Survivors of rape and sexual assault face a significantly elevated risk of suicide, with studies indicating that they are 10 times more likely to attempt suicide than those who have not experienced sexual violence. Approximately 13% of rape victims attempt suicide, and over one-third (33%) contemplate it.

YOU MAY EVEN GET BOTH.

HIERARCHY